

Storms Tonight or Monday;
Cooler Monday.

The Washington Times

Sunday Evening
EDITION

NUMBER 6762.

Yesterday's Circulation, 43,150

WASHINGTON, SUNDAY EVENING, JULY 10, 1910.

Twenty-two Pages.

PRICE ONE CENT.

SHOWERS TO END GREAT HEAT WAVE WITHIN 48 HOURS

Cooler Weather Predicted Is Due to Heavy Rains in the West.

STORM IS MOVING TOWARD THE EAST

Relief Is Expected Tonight or Tomorrow Throughout the Entire North.

TODAY'S HEAT RECORD.

Weather Bureau, Wash.	Kiosk.
8 a. m.	78
9 a. m.	80
10 a. m.	82
11 a. m.	84
12 noon	85
1 p. m.	86
2 p. m.	87
3 p. m.	88

Within forty-eight hours, according to the Weather Bureau, the record-breaking hot weather will have passed into history, and lower temperatures will prevail in Washington.

The backbone of the great heat wave that has enveloped the entire country, it is announced, has been broken. In the extreme north the upper lake regions and the section west of the Mississippi have been cooled materially, have driven off the humidity.

In Chicago the temperature this morning was sixty-five degrees, the first rain for almost a month having fallen in that section of the country last night.

While there has been a very slight lowering of the temperature in Washington today, the breeze from the southwest that began blowing early has reduced the temperature, and up to noon there had been no prostrations in the District, and no deaths were recorded that could be traced to the high temperatures.

In this respect Washington was better off than other sections, where many prostrations and deaths are reported.

In New York city there were four deaths before 5:30 o'clock this morning. In Boston there were more prostrations at noon today than were reported all day yesterday.

Hot Wave Seldom Equalled.

Seldom in the history of the Weather Bureau has there been such a general distribution of hot weather throughout the country as has occurred during the past two weeks.

Experiments in New England show that the super-heated atmosphere has laid on the earth like a blanket 2,000 feet thick. Charles O. Giddens, the aeronaut and automobile enthusiast, made observations from a balloon, and the figures obtained by him will be used in the official record of the weather.

This is the first time that the thickness of a heat wave has ever been measured.

The Weather Bureau bases its prediction for a rapid dissipation of the sweltering temperatures on a meteorological disturbance that is moving slowly eastward over the Great Lakes, and is causing local thunderstorms in the lake regions, the Ohio and Mississippi valleys and the mid-plains States.

Local showers are reported also from the South Atlantic and the Gulf States. High temperatures continue, however, throughout the East and South, the Ohio valley and the lower lake region. A general change to cooler weather is in progress over the upper lake region, the upper Mississippi valley, the plains States and the Rocky Mountain region.

Cool Weather Coming.

The indications are the Weather Bureau continues, that the disturbance that is over the Great Lakes will move slowly eastward to the St. Lawrence valley and cause local showers in the New England, the middle Atlantic States, Ohio valley, and the lower lake region tonight or tomorrow morning.

Shower are also probable in the South Atlantic and Gulf States. A gradual dissipation of the warm weather that now prevails in the middle Atlantic and New England States, the Ohio valley, and the lower lake region (Continued on Fifth Page.)

WEATHER REPORT.

A disturbance is moving slowly eastward over the Great Lakes causing local thunderstorms.

High temperatures continue throughout the Eastern and Southern States, and a general change to cooler weather is in progress over the upper lake region and the upper Mississippi Valley.

The indications are that the disturbance that is over the Great Lakes will move slowly eastward to the St. Lawrence valley and cause local showers in the middle Atlantic States tonight and Monday.

FORECAST FOR THE DISTRICT.

Fairly cloudy with thunderstorms tonight or Monday; somewhat lower temperature Monday; light to moderate southerly to westerly winds.

TEMPERATURE.

8 a. m.	78
9 a. m.	80
10 a. m.	82
11 a. m.	84
12 noon	85
1 p. m.	86
2 p. m.	87
3 p. m.	88

SUN TABLE.

Sun rises	4:52
Sun sets	7:28

TIDE TABLE.

Today—High tide, 10:35 a. m. and 11:17 p. m. Low tide, 5:50 a. m. and 5:21 p. m.
Tomorrow—High tide, 11:35 a. m. and 12 p. m. Low tide, 6:42 a. m. and 6:12 p. m.

CONDITION OF THE WATER.

HARPERS FERRY, Va., July 10.—Potomac clear and Shenandoah very muddy this morning.

ROOSEVELT BEAMS UPON 30 CAMPERS

Plea for Outdoor Life Renewed When Young Men Call.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 10.—Colonel Roosevelt was surprised by hearing enthusiastic cheering as his automobile was driven up to the little Episcopal Church here this morning.

A camping party of thirty-five young men from Aspinia, L. I., had tramped over to the church and lined up on a terrace. The colonel smiled, waved his big Panama hat and shook hands all around. When he heard that they were campers he grew more enthusiastic.

"More of our young men should lead an outdoor life," he told them. He then entered the church with Mrs. Roosevelt, and heard a short sermon.

There are no political visitors at Sagamore Hill today, and will be none until Tuesday, when the famous deferred conference between the colonel and Governor Hughes takes place.

The fall campaign will be discussed on that occasion, and candidates for governor will be threshed out.

The politicians are no wiser now than they were on June 15 as to who will be the next gubernatorial candidate of the Republican party in New York State. Half a dozen names are the subject of conjecture, but no one knows anything definite.

TAFT SWELTERING IN BEVERLY'S HEAT

BEVERLY, Mass., July 10.—Persons who are sweltering in the intense heat throughout the country today have nothing on the President of the United States.

Sweltering is Mr. Taft's outdoor sport on this fair Sunday, and sweltering in Beverly is no joke.

It is considered as peculiarly unfortunate that as soon as the President resorted to this summer resort, the place began to warm up with all the perfection and intensity of Pennsylvania avenue in Washington. Up here there is, as an old lady once said of Washington, a "lot of humidity" in the air.

And heat in Beverly is terrific. It is as hot as an iron hinge, and things are still heating up.

In spite of this, however, the President attended divine services this morning at the Unitarian Church here. He was attended by Capt. Archibald W. Butt, who wore a white suit and a heated look.

Anybody who attends the Unitarian Church here now has to have tickets, so as to insure the building not being too crowded. But there was no real use for tickets today. The church was too crowded with heat.

MRS. NORTON GAINING AFTER OPERATION

BEVERLY, Mass., May 10.—Mrs. Charles Dyer Norton, wife of the secretary to the President, is in excellent condition today, following the operation she underwent yesterday for appendicitis.

All inquiries at the Beverly hospital, where Mrs. Norton is under the care of Dr. Samuel J. Mixter, of Boston, were met with the response that the patient is doing as well as could be expected after such a severe operation, and that her recovery is only a matter of time.

In view of Mrs. Norton's illness, it is not believed that Mr. Norton will be able to accompany the Presidential party on its cruise along the New England shore, beginning July 15.

PENNED ALL NIGHT IN AN ELEVATOR

Watchman Is Rescued in an Unconscious Condition Due to Heat and Fright.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 10.—All night in an elevator shaft was the experience of James W. Hawkins, a watchman, employed by a local detective agency to make night tours of several big downtown buildings.

He was taken out today unconscious, but was revived soon after being taken to the Emergency Hospital.

Hawkins went into the Messersmith store in Michigan street about 10 o'clock last night, and as usual got into the elevator to go up on the top floor and make his way downward by stairs.

Between floors a fuse blew out and the elevator stopped.

Unable to make himself heard, he remained in his trap until the police located him.

All morning they had been looking for him, as he had been reported missing shortly after midnight. Fight and heat are blamed for his condition.

HOFFMAN THEATER WILL BE IN LONDON

Manager of Vaudeville Star, Declares Ground for Her Playhouse Is Being Broken.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The Gertrude Hoffman Theater of Varieties is to be built in London, according to M. A. Sachs, a Paris, Row lawyer, who returned on the New York today. He left for Europe some weeks ago, accompanied by the vaudeville star, and her husband Baron Max Hoffman.

"We made a contract," said Sachs, "calling for her appearance during the Hoffman will play at the Folies Magiques and the other in her own theater in London, grounds for which is now being broken."

Front Doors Glazed, $4.00 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

ENGINEER'S BRAVERY SAVES BOOTY WHEN EXPRESS IS HELD UP

Fleeing in Darkness, Followed by Fire of Bullets, He Starts Train.

FOUR MEN ARRESTED, ONE BADLY INJURED

Attempt to Raid Baggage Car Carrying Coin Causes Panic Among Passengers.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 10.—Held up early today barely outside the city limits of St. Louis, the passengers on the westbound Missouri, Kansas and Texas Southwestern flyer, and the baggage car, containing thousands of dollars, were snatched from the hands of the highwaymen by the plucky engineer and fireman, who, under a rain of bullets, regained the engine cab and brought the train to safety.

For forty minutes the train was in the hands of the bandits. Escape was effected only because of their inability to uncouple the baggage car, and the calling of the engine crew to help them.

When Engineer Quinn, with his fireman, once more got his hand upon the throttle, after slipping from the clutches of the bandits, his train was pulled away amid a fusillade of shots fired by the robbers, which threw the already frightened passengers into a panic.

Four Men Arrested.

As a result of the alarm spread by the train crew after the bandits had been eluded, four men, one of them with a fractured skull and torn body, have been arrested.

The four were taken in custody when encountered driving from the direction of the Columbia Bottom station. Each refused to make a statement, though the injured man, who was taken to the city hospital, was heard to mumble the words "train" and "fall," between his groans of pain. Those arrested are: Conrad Kuebler, 263 Pope avenue.

Herman Brinkman, 223 Pope avenue. Thomas Hines, 357 Pope avenue. Charles Meier, 351 Carrie avenue.

Brinkman is the injured man. His wounds and his appearance give the impression that he fell from a moving train.

Halted by Red Lantern.

The Katy Flyer, which left St. Louis at 11:50 last night, was held up one mile south of Larimore, at 12:20 o'clock by three masked men. The train was running slowly at that point, as is the rule until it reaches Spanish Lake, the next stop.

By waving a red lantern, the highwaymen halted the train. Placing the engineer and fireman under guard, the bandits at once proceeded to try to uncouple the baggage car from the passenger coaches. Their purpose was to compel the engineer to haul the single car to a safe distance from the rest of the train.

Unable to manipulate the coupling, the robbers forced the engineer and fireman to go with them to the baggage car, at the point of revolvers. While tinkering about in the darkness, under the pretense of assisting in uncoupling the car, Quinn and the fireman glided away from the bandits. Once out of range of the robbers' lanterns, they began to dash for the engine.

Bandits Open Fire.

Hearing their footsteps, and divining their purpose, the bandits opened fire. Unable to see the escaping trainmen, they shot indiscriminately. None was injured.

Springing into his cab, the engineer threw the throttle wide open. Slowly the train gathered headway, slipping away from the bandits, and then in a few moments was running at express speed from the scene of the hold-up and attempted robbery.

Meanwhile the passengers, panicked at the firing about the train, were little less assured by the wild chase.

(Continued on Fourth Page.)

SWISH OF SILK SKIRTS STOPS GIRL'S ELOPEMENT

Daughter of Pittsburg Millionaire, Running Away With Footman, Awakens Mother, With the Result That Both Spend Several Hours in Jail.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 10.—The youthful romance of Miss Anna Kelly, the seventeen-year-old daughter of a local millionaire manufacturer, was shattered cruelly early this morning when she was prevented from boarding a train for the West.

At the same time her husband-to-be James Gaster, a footman in the employ of the Kelly family, was "raged from behind a pile of trunks."

Both were unceremoniously taken to the central station, where they were brought before the young woman's father, who decreed that both his daughter and the footman might become wiser young persons by remaining behind prison bars for the rest of the night.

This morning both are waiting and wondering when they will be released. One little misstep marred the elopement. When Miss Kelly left her home at 1 o'clock this morning she insisted upon wearing a crinkling, swishing silk skirt.

As she passed the apartments occupied by her father and mother the silk skirt insisted upon swishing, and Mrs. Kelly heard the noise. She also heard the gentle click of the front door.

Sticking her head out of the window, Mrs. Kelly saw her only daughter fleeing across the lawn, and with the young woman was a man who later proved to be the ambitious footman.

A telephone message to police headquarters took Detectives Morgan and Dillon to the Union depot.

This ended the romance for a time. Miss Kelly is booked as a runaway. Gaster must answer to the elastic suspicious person charge.

Doors 1½-Inch Thick, $1.50 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

Testator and Members of Family

ROBERT G. DYRENFORTH,
Whose Will Contains Queer Provisions.

DECLARE T. F. WALSH LONG LOST BROTHER

Coronado Women to Lay Claim to Money Left by Mining King.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 10.—Asserting that the late Thomas F. Walsh, multi-millionaire mining man of Colorado, was their long lost brother, Mrs. Margaret J. Johnson and Mrs. Mary Shafus, two Coronado women, declare they will set up a claim for their share of Walsh's valuable estate. Both women are well past sixty years of age.

Mrs. Johnson did the talking for the sisters when seen this morning.

"We are certain that Thomas Walsh, the mining king, who died last April at Washington, was our brother Tom, who left Ireland nearly forty years ago when he was nineteen years old," said Mrs. Johnson. "The newspapers' story of Mr. Walsh's early life tally in every detail with our brother's relations living in Australia. She intimated that counsel would be employed at once to fight for a share of the Walsh estate."

Mrs. Johnson said she had two other sisters living in Australia. She intimated that counsel would be employed at once to fight for a share of the Walsh estate.

My brother Thomas was born in 1850, and not in 1851, the year in which, according to the papers, Mr. Walsh was born. The pictures of Mr. Walsh printed in the papers greatly resemble my brother as I remember him. Thomas emigrated to this country in 1871 from Cork, but never once afterward did we hear from him.

"I came to America in 1874, and a short time later my sister Mary followed. We are going to establish our relationship to the mining king and claim a share of the estate."

Mrs. Johnson said she had two other sisters living in Australia. She intimated that counsel would be employed at once to fight for a share of the Walsh estate.

GIRL IS ACCUSED
OF 20 ROBBERIES

WILBESBARRE, Pa., July 10.—Accused of a series of more than twenty thefts and with having stolen money and jewels aggregating in value more than $2,000, Agnes Shafus, aged seventeen, was captured by city detectives early this morning after a five-weeks' chase.

The girl was dressed neatly.

BRUSSELS, July 10.—While flying at a great height above the city this morning, Kinnel, the well-known Belgian aviator, was dashed to the ground and fatally injured.

The machine, a Farman biplane, was smashed into fragments as it struck the ground. The fact that the man himself was not instantly killed by his great plunge caused great amazement among the horror-stricken spectators. As it is, his body is terribly mangled, and physicians have no hope of his recovery.

Now attending the exposition in progress here had hailed with delight Kinnel's exploits in the sky. This morning, when he ascended, an unusually large number of spectators watched his aerial evolutions, owing to the fact that the day was Sunday.

Suddenly, without the slightest hint to the watchers that either the aviator or his machine was in distress, the biplane dipped, turned over, and the man and his craft came hurtling to the earth. So serious were Kinnel's injuries that he was unable to give any explanation as to the cause of the disaster which, it is believed, will cost him his life.

BALDWIN PICKS UP
HARMON'S GAUNTLET

GARDEN CITY, L. I., July 10.—Before great Sunday crowds, Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin made two laps around the Garden City aviation course, in the monoplane of his own construction. The flights were merely for practice, it was intimated, and not preliminary to any extended trip for today.

Expectations that Clifford B. Harmon would attempt a flight across the Sound today to Greenwich, Conn., drew an unusually large number of visitors to the aviation field. With weather conditions growing more favorable each hour, it was said that the aviator might make the attempt late in the afternoon.

Floats have been attached to his aeroplane, and the aviator has declared himself ready for the attempt. The (Continued on Fourth Page.)

Pretty Mantels For $3.00 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

Testator and Members of Family

ROSE MARIE KNOWLTON,
Widowed Daughter Cut Off By Will.

PREACHER PRAISES WASHINGTON TIMES

The Rev. John E. Briggs
Rejoices in Suppression of Reno Fight Pictures.

Before beginning his sermon this morning the Rev. John E. Briggs, pastor of the Fifth Baptist Church, declared he had an "important announcement" to make, and thereupon commended The Times for refraining from printing pictures of the Johnson-Jeffries fight. He said:

"In behalf of the clergy of Washington, particularly the Baptist Conference, I wish to commend The Washington Times for not printing any pictures of the brutal and horrible prize fight in Reno on the Fourth."

Dr. Briggs is president of the Baptist Conference, which led the fight for the suppression of the fight pictures in Washington and caused the District Commissioners to put the ban on them.

"Our appeal for the suppression of the brutal fight pictures was made to the press, as well as to the District Commissioners," said Dr. Briggs. "It was made in the interest of good morals and humanity, and in the name of law and order, with a view of protecting life, limb, morals, and property, as the vicious views were a menace to all that is good."

Crusade Productive.

"In a great measure our crusade was productive of fruit, that is so far as the theaters and The Times were concerned. I hope that other newspapers will follow the splendid example of The Times and print no more pictures of the brutal exhibition, and will refrain from printing glaring accounts of a so-called sport that has been outlawed in every State but one."

"I feel that it is not only the duty of a pastor to point out sin, but to believe he should also commend when an effort is made to suppress sin and vice. Therefore, I wish to take this occasion to commend publicly The Times and to thank the District Commissioners for their honest and fearless stand."

FIGHT IS ARRAIGNED
BY PASTOR JOHNSON

The congregation which attended service at Grace Baptist Church, Ninth and D streets southeast, this morning heard a scathing arraignment of the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno by the pastor, the Rev. Frank W. Johnson.

The minister declared that "the world has been fight crazy, and is only now beginning to sober up." He said a reaction of feeling against the horror and brutality of the great Reno fight was now sweeping over the world, and that this reaction was taking the form of

(Continued on Tenth Page.)

Moldings, No. 1, for 1 Cent a Foot. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

Colonial Columns, $2.00 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

Colonial Columns, $2.00 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

Colonial Columns, $2.00 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

Colonial Columns, $2.00 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

Colonial Columns, $2.00 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

Colonial Columns, $2.00 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

BATTLE TO BREAK DYRENFORTH WILL BEGIN TOMORROW

Fortune Left Subject to Freak Conditions May Be Diverted.

FAMILY TO CONTEST QUEER TESTAMENT

Early Escapades Said to Be Cause of Eccentric Man's Hatred of Women.

By THEODORE H. TILLER.

THE freak-eared will of an eccentric man of sixty-six years, prescribing multitudinous things that an eleven-year-old heir must do in order to enjoy his fortune, has been filed in the courts of the District of Columbia.

Tomorrow there begins a battle by forgotten heirs to share in an estate that some say amounts to $500 and others declare may total $500,000.

The story of the will and its maker is a peculiar one, furnishing many an insight into that side of human nature that is so often held up to public view through the medium of these last testaments.

The courts have recorded every form of ante-death utterances. Edward H. Harriman drew one of ninety-nine words bequeathing more than that number of millions; suicides have written them in blood leaving as a heritage little property and much disgrace—but it has remained for Robert G. Dyrenforth, patent attorney of Washington and New York, to draw up perhaps the most unique and iron-clad instrument ever left lingering mortals to fathom and carry out.

Life Full of Events.

After an eventful life as linguist, war veteran, commissioner of patents, man of affairs, world-roamer, would-be grass widower, and just plain patent attorney, Mr. Dyrenforth departed this life in New York on Independence Day—less than a week ago.

If his heir, young Robert St. George Dyrenforth, foster son, is to see any great amount of independence before he reaches the age of twenty-eight, when the fortune will be his, the will of the elder Dyrenforth does not emphasize that fact.

The actions of young Robert are mapped out, almost by diagram, from this day to that.

With the same care that he employed in his endeavor to shape the earthly destinies of his favored heir and namesake, Colonel Dyrenforth, (who really possessed an enviable war record) avoided exhibiting any interest whatever in the future movements of his wife and daughter—except to stipulate that their paths must not cross that of young Robert.

All of which leads to the rather tragic story of the Dyrenforths.

STORY OF THE FAMILY.

IN comparative want there lives in the Capital today Mrs. Jennie Dyrenforth, widow of this eccentric man. Separated from her husband in 1894, she declares that she has been unable to collect regularly since the $5 a month allowance which the court ordered Colonel Dyrenforth to contribute for her support.

Across the corner from the Twenty-first street home of Mrs. Dyrenforth resides Mrs. Rose Marie Knowlton, daughter of Robert G. and Jennie Dyrenforth. Mrs. Knowlton is a widow, too, with two sons to support.

The heir to the Dyrenforth fortune loses his all if he associates with Mrs. Dyrenforth or Mrs. Knowlton.

In a sanitarium near Washington, there is confined Mary Elizabeth Dyrenforth, another daughter, who has been an epileptic for years. She, however, has never incurred the displeasure of her father and he sets aside a small sum for her in his will.

Robert An Orphan When Adopted.

Two other daughters blessed the union of Robert G. and Jennie Dyrenforth. One died practically upon the eve of her marriage. The other was Caroline Dyrenforth, afterward Mrs. Patrick J. McGrath, wife of an army surgeon. She was the mother of Robert St. George Dyrenforth, the present eleven-year-old heir to the estate of the elder Dyrenforth, by whom he was adopted. She died of consumption, as her sister had done, within a short time after the birth of Robert.

Dr. McGrath died two years ago. Previous to this, in fact, about eight years ago, he gave his son, Robert St. George, to the grandfather. The adoption was made legal by the courts.

The husband of Mrs. Knowlton, the daughter referred to in the Dyrenforth will as being a person with whom his heir must have nothing to do, was a

(Continued on Eighth Page.)

Colonial Columns, $2.00 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

Colonial Columns, $2.00 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

Colonial Columns, $2.00 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

Colonial Columns, $2.00 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.

Colonial Columns, $2.00 Apiece. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th & N. Y. Ave. -Adv.